Average retail fertilizer prices tracked by DTN for the first full week of August 2026 were mixed, with five of the eight major fertilizers lower in price compared to last month and UAN32 leading the declines. Anhydrous ammonia averaged $963 per ton, 7% less expensive than the prior month, while urea averaged $678 per ton, 5% lower. DAP averaged $917 per ton. The remaining nutrients were little changed. Softer nitrogen values reflect easing international urea benchmarks and improving supply expectations ahead of the fall application season.
