카드 요약 / 당시 확인 내용

Urea prices fell to $386 per tonne in mid - August 2026 as the decline accelerated, driven by China releasing additional export quota volumes and by progress in negotiations to restore safe shipping through the Strait of Hormuz. Separately, Iran and Oman agreed on coordinates for a Hormuz safe shipping route, a key step for fertilizer trade given that roughly a third of global fertilizer shipments transit the strait. Urea futures had earlier surged as high as $684 per tonne, the highest since October 2022, as the Middle East conflict disrupted natural gas supply and restricted flows through the strait. The retreat reflects the unwinding of war - related risk premium.
