Nebraska CropWatch published a July 16, 2026 legal update explaining that the U.S. Supreme Court ruled federal pesticide labeling requirements under FIFRA preempt certain state-law failure-to-warn claims in Monsanto v. Durnell. The article says the issue was not whether glyphosate caused cancer, but whether states can require pesticide label language that exceeds or differs from EPA-approved federal label language. CropWatch said the ruling is expected to affect similar failure-to-warn lawsuits involving glyphosate products and other pesticides.
