Fertilizer Daily reported on July 16, 2026 that U.S. retail fertilizer prices extended a mostly lower trend to five straight weeks according to sellers surveyed by DTN. UAN28 and UAN32 each fell 7% from the prior month, averaging $493 per ton and $529 per ton. Urea averaged $714 per ton, down 6% on the month but still 9% more expensive than a year earlier. The article said the retail retreat is unwinding the Strait of Hormuz spike rather than returning the market to pre - crisis levels.
