FMC CEO Pierre Brondeau said the crop - protection company could be sold by the end of July 2026, stating the number of parties in discussions 'is getting smaller' and that a deal could close by the Q2 earnings call. Corteva is a licensing partner rather than a prospective buyer. The article notes FMC recently licensed its rimisoxafen herbicide technology to Corteva for distribution in the U.S., Brazil and other Western Hemisphere countries to address resistant weeds. Brondeau emphasized the sale process is 'very distracting for an organization.'
